Sustainability

Hutchies is committed to delivering construction projects that protect the environment and support communities. We use resources responsibly to ensure we can continue building well into the future.

To achieve this, we:

- Follow legal and other requirements relating to sustainable work practices
- Integrate sustainability initiatives into our business operations
- Consider whole of life and sustainability factors in the design and construction of our projects
- Consult with industry bodies and specialists to enhance sustainability outcomes
- Align sustainability practices with our strategic direction to help achieve net zero by 2050
- Aim to incorporate recycled or recyclable materials, reuse or repurpose where possible, and reduce waste
- Monitor energy, water, and waste usage, review and continuously improve related practices

Where possible, we adopt strategies that support sustainable construction practices and aim to positively impact the environment and the communities we work in.
